Report of Board of Education.

In presenting a brief report of the school work for the year 1889, we desire to congratulate the people on the success that has attended the work. Peace and harmony have prevailed to an extent so unusual that the near approach of the millennial is clearly indicated; the work as a whole has been satisfactory, and has far exceeded our most sanguine expectations.

This is due to the combined facts that the new town system seems peculiarly adapted to our needs, and that the selection of teachers proved wise and fortunate. Good teachers are not manufactured to order; neither can culture and training supply fully what Nature has denied, and the best symptom of increased interest in, and profit from our public schools, it seems to us, lies in the fact that school managements are rapidly coming to recognize this truth. Good, thorough, live, energetic, common-sense teachers, who understand something of human nature, and aim to use all, instead of a small part of the helps to cultivate and discipline it for practical business, are the kind of instructors that the times demand, and must have.

The summer terms opened May 6th., and continued eight weeks, and were attended with a degree of harmony and success somewhat remarkable. So far as we know, there was not a murmur of trouble from any source, and the work was entirely satisfactory to all parties concerned. The fall terms should regularly have continued ten weeks, with an additional two weeks in the village schools, but on account of the prevalence of diphtheria in Milan Hill and Cedar Pond Districts, these schools were closed after seven and one-half weeks in the former, and five weeks in the latter district. This, of course, should be taken into consideration in arranging the length of terms for the coming school year. The second term in the Lower Department of the West Milan school was also shortened three weeks on account of the sickness of the teacher.

The same teachers employed in the opening of the schools, were continued through the entire school year, with the exception of the school on Fogg Hill, which had a new teacher for each term, with no bad results or dissatisfaction to any one concerned.

A word in regard to the teachers employed may not in this connection be out of place.

VILLAGE SCHOOL - MILAN CORNER.

Upper Department.

The Upper Department of this school has been under the instruction of Miss Minnie E. Wheeler, a young lady who possesses a very thorough and practical education, obtained at Bethel Academy and Bates' College, and whose peculiar fitness for her work lies in the fact that she enjoys teaching, and is able to impress the pupils with the same spirit. Into this room have this year been introduced, in addition to the usual common school studies, Latin and some of the higher sciences. Miss Wheeler is a lady of refinement and culture, and one of our most popular teachers. This statement is attested by the fact that at the close of the winter term, she was at once engaged for a private term, which is still in session. We heartily recommend her continuation in this room.

Lower Department.

In this room, Miss Hattie Phipps has stood at the helm through the year and piloted the ship with patience, prudence and profit. Miss Phipps is not a student of books alone, but has closely observed and studied human nature, thereby possessing herself of the requisite skill and tact to engineer a primary school. The pupils have advanced rapidly, and the utmost harmony and good order have prevailed.

WEST MILAN

Upper Department

This school was ably taught by Miss Clarine Twitchell, a young lady well known in educational circles in this section. She is well qualified for her work by an abundance of sound sense, a very thorough education, and an ardent interest in the work of teaching. She has energy, talent, and a peculiar faculty of selecting from many methods the best, and making first rate application of the same. In this school also, Latin has been successfully introduced, as have several other of the higher branches of education.

Lower Department

Mrs. Fred H. Blanchard has ably directed through the year in this room. To teach successfully a primary school requires ingenuity, push, patience and perseverance. By line upon line and precept upon precept must the work go on. Mrs. Blanchard is amply qualified by long experience and adaptability for this department of school work, and though disabled and suspended from work by accident and sickness at several different times, her work was excellent and perfectly satisfactory. If she could be continued in this department, the future success of the school would be assured.

Hamlin District.

Miss Annie Hamlin has taught with good success this school, without any friction, and with good results for all the pupils, and satisfaction to the parents and school management. This school is perhaps the most backward one in town, and does not afford a teacher opportunity to do her best work, but Miss Hamlin has combatted with the obstacles heroically, and deserves the highest commendation.

Bickford District.

In this little temple of knowledge, Miss Euna K. Phipps has held the sceptre, and done faithful service for the cause. The work progressed steadily throughout the year and signs of improvement were everywhere visible. Miss Phipps' pleasant manners, and intense interest in the school made her success so gratifying, that her return to the school is heartily recommended.

Cedar Pond District.

This district has been recently established, and with proper management is destined to become one of the most prosperous in the town. The pupils are bright and quick of perception, and as a whole inclined to make the best of their opportunities. Miss Rose Harvey has taught both terms giving entire satisfaction, and by the request of some of the people in the district, has been engaged for the coming year.

Fogg Hill District.

Miss Annie Fogg began her work of teaching here in the spring term. The work in this school is hard,—perhaps too hard for an inexperienced teacher, but Miss Fogg did her work faithfully and well, giving satisfactory instruction, and governing the pupils as well as young teachers generally do. With experience, Miss Fogg will develop into a very excellent teacher. In the fall, Elmer Fogg was the pedagogue of this knowledge box, and his work was very excellent. He teaches well, has a decidedly easy way of governing a school, and was well liked by both parents and pupils.

Milan Hill District.

This school is now one of the pleasantest in the town, and the deportment of the pupils is extraordinary. Miss Altha Kimball was the teacher here, and did her work carefully and thoroughly. The pupils showed good advancement, and everything progressed favorably. Miss Kimball is a young teacher, but is nevertheless, one of our good ones, and should be kept in town.

General Remarks.

We have aimed to do all in our power to lift the standard of all the schools, without reference to location or grade, and feel that our work has been appreciated and approved. We desire in this connection to call the attention of the parents to the importance of interesting themselves personally in the important work of the education of their children. Visit the schools often, and become acquainted with the teachers, and familiar with the methods and means of instruction. Encourage regular attendance. Discourage idle gossip and the exaggeration of little matters with which all schools are familiar, and with which all teachers are tried.

Make the pupils to understand that they are to be obedient and studious, and endeavor to impress them early with the necessity of wisely and thoughtfully improving these school days.

In retiring from the school Board, we desire to extend our thanks to all the teachers, parents and pupils for their kindly compliance with our suggestions and wishes, and for the considerate treatment of all concerned.
